

Tuesday 5th October 2010

BMVR Alcazar - Cours Belsunce
Marseille 1^{er}

Cities mobilization against climate change in the Mediterranean

08h45

Participants' registration

09h15

Welcome and greetings by local authorities
Bernard Susini and Claude Vallette

09h30

Présentation du projet CATMED par Pedro Marin, Mairie de Malaga – Chef de file

09h45

Session 1 : The Mediterranean sustainable city on the march :

The specificities, progresses and challenges. Balance of Mediterranean cities efforts done until now to achieve a sustainable urban development and to fight against climate changes.

Moderator : Jean Charles LARDIC, City of Marseilles

Speakers :

- Thierry Fabre, essayiste, editor of the review La Pensée du Midi, «The Mediterranean city.»
- Pierre-Arnaud Barthel, CEDEJ, Cairo, «First experiences of Sustainable neighbourhoods in Arab Mediterranean countries»
- Isabelle Rault, Architect, Atelier Henrot et Rault, «Which sustainable neighbourhoods for the Southern Europe?» Study realized for the City of Marseille by Adèle Consultants

11h00

Pause café

11h30

Session 2 Urban fabric, urban sustainable development and climate change :

Convincing by the experimentation in the Mediterranean. The CATMED project has chosen to give a key role to experimentation as a way of convincing people that opportunities and possibilities exist to go further on the path of urban sustainability. A shared conviction...

Moderator : Hélène Balu, Agence d'Urbanisme de l'Agglomération de Marseille

Speakers :

- Beatrice Schlu, City of Hamburg, Experimentation at the core of the project «Hamburg – Green Capital 2011»
- Jean Paul Robert, Ateliers Jean Nouvel
- Franck Geiling, Director of Architecture and Urbanism, EPA Euroméditerranée. Presentation of the Euroméditerranée "Eco-cité" project

13h00

Conclusions : Claude VALLETTE, Conseiller Municipal délégué à la Coopération Métropolitaine, à l'Urbanisme, Président de l'Agence d'Urbanisme de l'Agglomération Marseillaise (AGAM)

13h30

Lunch